Have you ever wondered what industries you might work in with a certificate or diploma in Occupational Health and Safety? What exactly does someone do working in OH&S? What training is needed and where would I get it? The presentation today will be sure to answer your questions and perhaps spark your interest in considering a career in this field. Our speaker, Lana Rhodes, will share about Occupational Health and Safety: The Precarious Past, the Positive Present, and the Flourishing Future as a Safety Professional. She will explain more about the certificate and diploma programs in OH&S available through Great Plains College.

Lana is a Program Coordinator at Great Plains College based out of the Kindersley Campus and is responsible for the Skills & Safety Training logistics and operations that take place in the Kindersley, Rosetown, Biggar, Outlook and Warman areas. Lana has lived and worked in Kindersley for the past 30 years and has been serving industry and client training needs on behalf of the college for the past 17 years. She is also responsible for post-secondary programming in the areas of Cybersecurity as well as Occupational Health and Safety. Prior to her service at the College, Lana spent the early years of her career in Radio as well as Hotel Management and Event Planning.
